Community Association Package

This product is designed for a community association, which is a group of property owners required by deed covenants or by-laws to be a member of an association that owns and maintains the common areas/interests of the association.

Common classes:

- ▶ Class Code 68500 — Community Associations — Not-for-profit only: Used when individual homeowners own/maintain/provide insurance for their own residential structure.
  - Homeowners Associations (an organization of the homeowners in a particular subdivision or planned unit development; homeowners typically own the entire physical structure of an individual home and the association is responsible for any common elements and amenities)
  - Planned United Development (a zoning classification that allows flexibility in the design of a subdivision to preserve open space; planned unit development zones generally set an overall density limit for the entire subdivision, allowing the dwelling units to be clustered to provide for common open space; typically classified similar to an homeowners association)
- ▶ Class Code 62003 — Condominiums — Residential — Association risk only: Used when the association owns/maintains/provides insurance for the exterior of residential structures.
  - Condominium Associations (an organization of all unit owners in a condominium to oversee the common elements and enforce the bylaws; condominium owners typically own only the interior of an individual unit, and the association is responsible for all common elements, exterior structures, roof, elevators, grounds, etc.)
  - Cooperative (Co-op) (a type of corporate ownership of real property whereby stockholders of the corporation are entitled to use a certain dwelling unit or other unit of space; typically classified similar to a condo association)
  - Townhome Associations (typically a single-family house of two or three stories that is usually connected to a similar house by a common sidewall)
    - If the association is responsible for any exterior portion of the building, use:
      - Class Code 62003 — Condominiums
    - If the individual unit owners are responsible for the exterior portion of the building, use:
      - Class Code 68500 — Community Association
